May 17th Blood Drive Tops Campus Record

A campus Blood Donation Day conducted on Tuesday, May 17, netted 204 units of blood, topping a previous record of 197 donors in April, 1968.

Two campus locations were used for the drive: a Donormobile parked in Saunders Court and the Main Lounge of Millberry Union.

The Associated Students, UCSF, donated a prize of $200 to be equally split among and awarded to the largest contributing class in each of the four professional schools — Medicine, Pharmacy, Dentistry, and Nursing.

Contest results, announced by Rod Sanden, executive vice president of the ASUCSF were:

First: School of Medicine (34 units. Winning class: first year — 19 units);

Second: School of Nursing (19 units. Winning class: 8-8 tie between first and second year classes);

Third: School of Dentistry (15 units. Winning class: first year — six units); and Fourth: School of Pharmacy (8 units. Winning class: third year — four units).

The next Blood Donation Day on campus is scheduled for Thursday, October 3, at Saunders Court and the Main Lounge of Millberry Union.

Samuel J. Wycoff, D.M.D., M.P.H., chairman of the Division of General Dentistry, shows a young neighborhood boy how to properly use dental floss, while a City fireman demonstrates techniques for performing cardiopulmonary resuscitation at May 14 Health Fair. The theme was "Your Health — It's Up to You."

Health Fair: Learning Was Fun

Belly dancers, folk singers and can-can girls as well as an adult dose of health education and movies for the children were featured at the May 14th Health Fair at Laguna Honda Elementary School.

UCSF Community Services sponsored the event in which approximately 20 community health care agencies and an equal number of university departments presented "Your Health — It's Up to You," in conjunction with National Hospital Week, which was held May 9-14.

According to Anthony Wagner, UCSF chairman for the event, the Fair grew out of a recognized need for the community to know what health care resources are available. He added that by taking booths to the community, exhibitors expected to learn something about the needs of neighborhood residents.

Fairgoers had an opportunity to learn about mammography, nutrition, biofeedback, health careers, and a wide range of other health-related topics as they stopped by booths and exhibits and participated in demonstrations — including one by City firemen, who showed how cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) is performed.

Ten winners in two elementary school grade level categories were chosen from among the 35 finalists who submitted posters on the day's theme. They were:

Kindergarten — Third Grade
First Prize ($35) — Naomi Talbert
John Muir School
Second Prize ($20) — Max Klassen
Mark Twain School
Third Prize ($10) — Eric Morgan
Mark Twain School

Fourth — Sixth Grade
First Prize — John Tam
Laguna Honda School
Second Prize — Laura Garcia
Mark Twain School
Third Prize — Ruby Jaiswall
Laguna Honda School

Honorable mention ($5) was given to Judy Chung of John Muir School; and a creativity prize ($5) to Carla Guerrero of the same school.

Honorable mention was given to Dwynne Newberry; and the creativity prize to Mary Yee, both of Laguna Honda School.

Wagner's assessment of the fair was that "the implementation and coordination of the event between UCSF and the community agencies went like clockwork." He added, however, that community participation could have been better, and said he would welcome input from residents of the community on ways to plan future programs so that more people will participate.
